INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this book is to give students practice exercises using the most common sight words. The activities are based on the Dolch Basic Sight Vocabulary. The difficulty level increases gradually as students progress through the book.

A list of the words used in the book is provided. It has been divided into three sections: A, B, and C. The activity pages are designated A, B, or C to indicate the list for which they provide practice.

Before starting a student on any of the practice exercises, it is suggested that you have the student read the lists orally. If the student knows all the words on List A, you probably will want to skip those drill pages and start with List B.

The activities focus on word recognition and letter patterns as well as reading in context.

An answer key is provided.
